TELEGRAPH TROUBLES.

Affairs Take an Unfavorable Turn for the Company.

The Brotherhood Firm and Gaining Strength.

Concessions Offered by the B. & O. Company.

CINCINNATI, July 21 —Superintendent Miller of this office says he has obtained the services of several good operators to-day and sent away some of those shown to be incompetent. The lines are working with reduced force in order to give the men sufficient rest The usual market reports from Chicago were not received to-day

NEW YORK, July 21 —At a meeting of telegraphers to-day telegrams from various parts of the country from labor organizations expressing sympathy with the strikers and offering financial assistance should this be desired were read Addresses were made by several persons The strikers will go on an excursion to Long Branch to-morrow on the Plymouth Rock, and hold another meeting on their return to the city The feeling that the W U Co cannot hold out against the strikers is very confident. To-day 43 new members were initiated in the Brotherhood. At the Western Union office it is said there is still a full force at work and that messages are sent to all points

It was thought that the American district messenger boys would strike to-day and about fifty from some of the up town offices endeavored to induce the boys to quit work, when the company, however, offered to pay the boys 10 cents per hour for extra work in addition to the regular salary, $4 and $5 a week, and 2½ cents per message They were perfectly satisfied

KANSAS CITY, July 21.—Manager Wood, of the Western Union office stated to-day that his present force of operators, including recruits, numbers 52 and several others are on the way here from smaller towns. Although the force was materially decreased he was able to dispose of local business offered without much delay. The strikers hold daily meetings and have initiated quite a number of new members. They claim a present membership of 90 in the local organization, and have received offers of aid from other trades They hold a mass meeting in the board of trade hall to-morrow afternoon, the purpose of which is to present their side of the trouble to the public.

BALTIMORE, July 21.—The Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph company at 2 o'clock state their position in regard to the strike as follows. They are willing and ready at any moment to hear and treat with men in their own employ and concede most liberal terms, but they positively decline and under no circumstances will they treat with a committee of the Brotherhood nor any person not in their employment. Mr. Stewart, superintendent of the company, states that they have eighteen operators at the tables in the main office to-day, of whom six are accomplished and efficient men and all the others can handle all messages satisfactorily, that the force in Chicago, Cincinnati and New York has been increased to-day at each office and their business is being handled efficiently Strikers have conducted themselves in a most orderly and quiet manner and unquestionably have the sympathy of the public.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21 There is no change in the situation of the telegraphers' strike here. Yreka is still disconnected. It is expected it will be remedied to-morrow All business is being readily handled As soon as communication is re-established with Portland all trouble will cease in this district.

LOUISVILLE, July 21 —There is no improvement in the situation here Strikers are still firm and apparently gaining strength. All speculative movements are at a standstill. The Western Union is still receiving business, but handles it with extreme difficulty.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Public interest manifested in the strike of telegraphers is pronounced in this city and extends to a class of people who are affected very remotely at best by it Striking operators have been in better feather to-day than at any former time and contend that the company will have to concede to a compromise in a few days at best. They base their claim upon additions to their ranks and upon reports from other cities They had a largely attended meeting this afternoon and were enthusiastic over the defection of operators of the gold and stock telegraph, who joined the ranks of the strikers to-day, and the action of the messengers in deserting their posts during the afternoon The action of the gold and stock operators served to confuse matters on 'change during the day and prevented in a large degree the dispatching of market quotations. In addition to gold and stock operators the reporters in the employ of the same company, who compile quotations on the floor on 'change also quit and four substitutes who were placed there by the Western Union were denied the privilege of the floor by the secretary of the board of trade on the ground that they were obtaining quotations for the use of bucket shops. Shortly after the messenger boys had filed out of the Western Union office the clerks in the delivery department of the same company also marched out without giving notice The management of the Western Union announces its ability to fill the places vacated by those defections shortly The company officials of the Western Union have displayed no discouragement and assert that their working force is daily improving and that all business is being dispatched rapidly. The strikers have placed bulletin boards in front of their hall and chronicle all matters which come to their knowledge, and which they deem favorable to their success They have perfected their organization in other ways The papers give all phases of the situation at length, and particularly matters of the local organization Various rumors have been given publicity intimating that railroad operators also contemplated going out, but nothing has transpired thus far to indicate that any further move is meditated. Afternoon papers declare that speculative business of 'change is virtually at a standstill by reason of the uncertainty engendered by the strikes and delay in receiving quotations and ordinary messages.

DETROIT, July 21 —The telegraphic situation took a sudden and unfavorable turn for the company to-night, when the day chief operator, his assistant and three others operators, who had remained at their desks hitherto from the first, left This leaves the force crippled, but those who remain are putting forth every exertion to expedite business.

PROVIDENCE, July 21.—Six of the operators of the Western Union struck to-day, leaving the force insufficient to handle business Three of the operators, which composes nearly the entire force of the American Rapid company, also struck

PETERSBURG, Va., July 21. Since the strike operators at the Western Union offices along the line of the Norfolk & Western Railroad have refused to do any work. The telegraph company have confined themselves strictly to railroad business. The telegraph lines along this road are owned by the railroad company, who employ the operators, and the strike causes a misunderstanding. They all went to work to-day.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The membership of the Brotherhood of Telegraphers in this city is 89, being an increase 11 since yesterday. Non members of the brotherhood now at work in the Western Union office have taken a pledge to go out at a stated time next week unless the executive committee of the company shows a disposition to negotiate with operators for a settlement of differences. They also request similar action in other cities. The manager of the B. & O. company has asked his men to meet him to-morrow for conference.

CHICAGO, July 21 —President Dunham, of the Chicago board of trade, has received a request from members of the Milwaukee chamber of commerce to call a meeting of the Chicago board to consider the situation growing out of the telegraphic strike Mr Dunham says a special meeting of the board will probably be called on Monday or Tuesday. The Mutual Union and B. & O companies are making no attempt to do business, and the office of the latter company was closed during the greater portion of the day

CHICAGO, July 21. Striking telegraphers held a meeting to-night at which between 700 and 800 were present. Two hundred new members were admitted, including clerks of the delivery department of the Western Union

The Great Rifle Match

WIMBLEDON, July 21, 10 a. m.—The weather opens very unpropitiously. The rain is now pouring down. The Americans say they will make as good scores at the long ranges as the British will. The match will probably be a very close one.

11 a. m The Americans are proceeding to the firing point, though it is still raining heavily. The sun is trying to struggle through the clouds Very few spectators are on the ground

11 22 a m —The rain has ceased The competitors have just begun to blow off.

11 40 a. m —It is again raining. The light is very good wind moderate and blowing from the targets.

11 45 a. m.—The match again opened with firing at 800 yards range Young, British, fired first and made a magpie. The rain is ceasing. Lowe, British, and Cash, American, both made misses on the first shots.

12 m —At the end of the fourth round the Americans were 12 ahead on to-day's shooting. Farse, British, missed on the sixth shot The Americans are shooting splendidly. Smith made the first bull's-eye for the Americans. It is raining in torrents

1 p m —At 800 yards the shooting resulted in a good victory for the visiting riflemen. They scored 346 points, British 330 Aggregate—American 1,424, British 1,400

At 900 yards Americans 263, British 297. This makes the aggregates—Americans 1,087, British 1,697.

Upon the conclusion of the match the crowd broke through the ropes. Bill Brown, in a short speech, thanked the Americans for coming to England, and said he hoped the bonds of affection would be maintained between England and the great country the Americans represented, His remarks were greeted with great cheering. Howard returned thanks on behalf of the American team. He said the Americans hoped to take their beating gracefully. They had backbone enough left to join in cheering the British team and nation. The crowd then dispersed. Many officials shook hands warmly with the Americans.

COLORADO MATTERS.

About Thirty Thousand Veterans Expected.

Denver Sparing no Expense for Their Entertainment.

Large Additions Making to Exposition Exhibits.

The Exposition

DENVER, July 21. At the exposition to-day, the attendance increased considerably over that of yesterday, and the work of placing exhibits goes bravely on. Much work will be accomplished to-morrow, particularly in machinery to arrive as people in that line have been so driven by business that only Sunday can be spared for the work of placing their exhibits. Great additions were made in the show from Park and Gunnison counties The concert to-day by Professor Wolfie's opera house orchestra created great enthusiasm in the audience Another will be given to-morrow afternoon. The crowds are expected to be great next week when the Grand Army arrives.

G. A. R. Reunion

DENVER, July 21.—Every incoming train to-day was loaded down with veterans, who come to participate in the grand reunion and encampment of the Grand Army which begins Tuesday next. At the camp everything is in readiness for the thousands to arrive Sunday and Monday. Indeed several hundreds have already taken quarters there Meals are being served regularly and everything moves as smoothly as one could wish. Never in its history has the city presented such a beautiful appearance in the matter of decoration. Neither money nor time has been spared. Larimer street still leads off as is natural, but the others are falling into line, and in all probability by Tuesday morning the dozen blocks in the center of the city will be covered with decorations. There is no hesitation in this. Everybody is in earnest, and the result will be a magnificent success. The private residences on Champa and Curtis and along Fourteenth avenue are also decorating, and from the city limits along the entire route will be the most glorious spectacle ever witnessed in a western city. The city council will put on every watering cart in the city on the route, and as they will work all night and up to noon of Tuesday, the march will be pleasant to spectators and the participants alike. From twelve o'clock until the passage of the column the cars on the Champa street line will be taken off in order that the line may be entirely unobstructed. Mayor Routt has issued a proclamation requesting all citizens to close their places of business on Tuesday afternoon.

NOTES.

Hill Investigation

WASHINGTON, July 21. Coleman opened proceedings to-day before the Hill investigation committee by reading affidavit complaining that papers called for by the prosecution were first inspected by the defense, who had ample opportunity to suppress and destroy any papers calculated to damage the defense. Totten emphatically denied that he had examined any papers called for by Coleman with the exception of an unimportant letter put in evidence yesterday. He also denied that any papers had been suppressed or destroyed and characterized Coleman's method of procedure as extraordinary. Coleman replied that it was a matter of jest in the office of the supervising architect that the prosecution had not been smart enough to secure essential papers. He said the fact that Hill remained in charge of the official records made the investigation a perfect farce in the eyes of the country. He asked for suspension The chairman said the committee would take the matter under consideration and submit it to the secretary. The committee had no power to suspend Hill.

MINING MATTERS.

Notes Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

ALASKA TERRITORY.

Leadville Chronicle.

As there are a great many persons in Leadville who have had, and have yet, the Alaska fever, a brief sketch of the condition of mining affairs in that far away country will be read with considerable interest:

In all the reports and letters written about the country, but very little truth or correctness has been shown. Since the discoveries of the Harris mining district two years ago last fall, Harrisburg has had but very little attraction for outsiders. But very little has been done with the mines but light prospecting which still is rather obscure, although the little settlement has done very well for itself. It has started out on its own merits and will have to keep on to work on its own merits Being so far away and cut off from any other country, it is no wonder that the place has not come before the notice of the public more than it has. The placer mines, about whose uncertain prospects so much has been written, have done nothing wonderful. With a small lot of 100 miners in 1881 the camp produced, from reliable authorities, $150,000 in gold dust. In 1882 everything had to be started, as the camp was new. No houses, roads or trails were built until June, 1881, and every claim had to be first opened and prospected. In 1882 the season was unusually late there, as everywhere else. The production of the above amount is distributed among the different claims as follows: The Island claims consisting of Williams & Co. averaged from eighty to 139 ounces per week regularly for twenty-six or twenty-eight weeks, These are the only claims that were able to put in a season, they being the lowest ones. The Powers claim produced above $25,000, the Harris and Janrau about $12,000 to $14,000, the Bulger Hill Co. $15,000 to $16,000; Grey & Co, $8,000 to $9,000; Loary & Co, $8,000 Franklin claim, $10,000; Bordreau & Co, $8,000, Dix & Co., $10,000, R. Driver, $5,000, N Latour, $4,000, Howe & Co, $4,000, Hillwell & Co, $4,000; McGinnis Creek, $8,000, Lenion Creek, $6,000 and a large number of small claims that have done equally well. The expense of extracting these amounts has given employment to about two hundred white men at from $3 50 to $4 per day, and about four hundred Indians at $1 50 to $2 per day These amounts of dust were obtained by ground sluicing, on top of quartz ledges, by washing the decomposed quartz through the sluices and it is no doubt that the percentage of gold saved in this way does not exceed 40 to 50 per cent of the actual value of dirt worked The gold has to be saved by quicksilver There are but very few of the claim holders who understand amalgamating. They most all have but a short string of boxes from 60 to 100 feet long, mostly set at an angle of 6 to 15 degrees, through which is rushed the dirt by turning on every inch of water the boxes will carry, and by rushing boulders through as big as the boxes will carry them. The gold is all small grained, rough (as it comes out of the oxidized quartz), and stands but very slim show to get to the bottom of the boxes, and to come in contact with the quicksilver. Besides, the gold is more or less coated and rusty, the ores being all sulphuret ores, and the gold only having been freed through oxidization.

Thus it will be seen that there are no flattering prospects in Alaska for either the mine owner or the miner, and the Indian labor is a blow to that country the same as Chinese labor is in Nevada and California

A LOCAL EXHIBITION.

Durango Record.

A meeting of the Miners' association is called for next Saturday evening, the object of which is to consider the feasibility of holding a San Juan fair, in Durango, some time during the coming fall.

The San Juan country is becoming too varied in her resources, too important in her productions of the precious metals, coal, lime, iron, lead, copper, lumber, stock and agriculture to longer delay this very important matter. There is scarcely a county in the United States of the same population and wealth as La Plata that does not have an annual exhibition of her products, stock and manufactures, her people getting together and spend a few days or a week in [illegible], and a [illegible] exchange of [illegible] that has done much to make the United States the great and prosperous nation that she is to-day. What has benefited other sections of our country will certainly benefit us

It is not the intention to make this an exhibit of La Plata county alone, but for the entire San Juan, and our neighbors in San Juan, Dolores, San Miguel and portions of Ouray lying tributary to Durango and Silverton are cordially invited to meet us on a common level and participate with us in the enjoyments and benefits of the coming fair.

The time has now come when we must be be up and doing. Let every man in the entire San Juan go to work with a will, and we will have an exposition that will astonish our jealous neighbor, Denver.

THE PORCUPINE.

Pitkin Mining News.

The great Porcupine tunnel is within a few feet from the surface now and will break through to daylight to-day. The tunnel will then be 1,850 feet and cuts all the veins of the hill, known as the Porcupine group. A regular system of drifting on three of the veins to the right and left will be instituted by Col. Roe at once. The air in those workings will always be fresh and pure on account of the direct draft caused by the main tunnel. The veins to be operated upon are the Eureka, No. 2, the Porcupine and the Gold Cup Fissure. The output will be enormous, as the veins are of remarkable width and well defined It is calculated that twenty-five to thirty tons can be taken out from the start per day, and can be increased to fifty tons per day if necessary. Shipping the ores will commence as soon as supplies are obtained from the railroad.

Bonded Domestic Whisky.

WASHINGTON, July 21. The secretary of the treasury addressed a letter to the collector of customs at New York regarding exportation of bonded whisky, some months since. A firm in Boston exported a quantity of domestic whisky in bond to Hamilton, Bermuda, which was returned to New York last January, where it now remains in a bonded warehouse. [illegible] with holder to buy 25 barrels of this whisky delivered in Boston, and they ask what course may lawfully be taken in the premises Guided by the opinion of the United State attorney general this department holds that articles of growth, product or manufactured in the United States or, when exported and reimported under section 2500, United States statutes, are not within the purview of the customs warehousing system, and they cannot lawfully be placed under laws creating that system. This will apply to distilled spirits manufactured in the United States once exported and re-imported. Under the section above cited, holders of such spirits collectors of [illegible] out of duty equal to tax imposed by internal revenue laws. They will not permit them to be entered for storage in bonded warehouses, and [illegible] of other means to obtain duty they will [illegible] hold them for the same and legal expenses of their action. In the case now before the department and spoken of in the beginning of this letter a warehouse bond has sometimes been taken in good faith and a mistaken but innocent belief in the legality and regularity thereof. Because of that the spirits to which that bond applies may be dealt with as an exceptional case in accordance with the condition of the bond.

Plagues in Neighboring Territory

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The surgeon general of the hospital service has been informed that a vessel from Vera Cruz has appeared off Apalachicola The collector at that port has been instructed to send the vessel to Ship Island. The surgeon general has also been informed that small pox and yellow fever have appeared in Matanzas and Cienfuegos, Cuba, and that cholera exists in Campichi and Oaxaca, Mexico.

Immigrants Returned.

NEW YORK, July 21.—A French pauper was sent back to England to-day on the steamer [illegible], and a Swedish pauper was returned on the City of Chester to-day by the emigration commissioners, who also shipped a man, his wife and four children by the steamer England because they were assisted emigrants and have no means of support.

WHARTON BARKER AND GARFIELD.

There have been hints and rumors at various times in regard to the nomination and election of General Garfield to the presidency, and we doubt not the people would like a full history of the matter. Mr. Wharton Barker, of Philadelphia, whose name has been mentioned so frequently of late in connection with the doctrine of the distribution of the surplus, has recently furnished some interesting correspondence, and we hope that before long he will write his promised history of the matter.

Mr. Barker says in an interview:

"The management of the Garfield campaign at Chicago, before and during the convention of June, 1880, was wholly in my hands. The oft-repeated charges that the late President Garfield was not true to the Hon. John Sherman, I know to be absolutely false, but as I some day propose to write the history of the movement which led to Garfield's nomination and election, I can to-day hand you a copy of connected memoranda prepared by me eighteen months ago, but never published."

On December 29, 1879, Mr. Barker wrote to General Garfield opening the question of Garfield's possible nomination to the presidency. The next month, January, 1880, a conference was held between these two gentlemen. On the 2d of February Mr. Barker wrote General Garfield:

"There will appear to-morrow in the Philadelphia and New York papers an address of the republicans of this city to the republican state convention, urging the absolute necessity of making no mistake. It is needless for me to say that there are very many leading republicans here who are very much opposed to the nomination for president of either General Grant, Secretary Sherman, Senator Blaine, or Senator Conkling, and in this address they give expression of their feeling in no timid way. Many of them are looking to you as the man who will come to the front at Chicago, and therefore watch with very great earnestness your public course. The opposition to you here, a year or two since, was very great, under the belief that you were a free trader, but your letters to me, called out by a short article in the Penn Monthly, giving reasons why General Grant would not do, and why you would do, has changed the opposition into support. In a word, that letter of yours stating how you became a member of the Cobden club in my hands and in those of such men as I saw fit to place it has worked the change."

On the 24th Barker wrote to Goldwin Smith, "Whether we shall have Grant, Blaine, Sherman, Garfield or Edmunds no one one can tell. It is nearly certain that either Garfield or Edmunds would be elected, but there are "doubts as to the others."

March 3, he wrote to Colonel Wickham Hoffman at St. Petersburg, "Neither Grant, Blaine, "nor Sherman has a good chance of election if "nominated, and therefore many wise people "expect to vote for either Edmunds or Garfield as the candidate of the republican "party."

February 24th he wrote to Mr. Samuel C. Pullman, "We hope by constant work to "force upon the Republican party such a man "as Edmunds or Garfield, and Garfield has a "very good chance."

April 6, the following was sent to General Garfield:

"The Grant movement certainly has much less force than it had two months since, and all anti-machine republicans are of the opinion that Conkling and Cameron will at Chicago see that the only safety for the republican party is in making some such a man as yourself our candidate. I hope to see you within ten days, that I may let you know the kind of action we propose to take. I am very confident that the republican party has no one save yourself under whose leadership success would be sure, and I believe the delegates at Chicago will risk nothing. There is already a strong movement in your favor in Pennsylvania, in Massachusetts, Connecticut, and New York, and a beginning of one in New Jersey. I think the time to name our candidate in an emphatic way will only be a few days before the convention meets.

About two weeks later (April 19) Mr. Barker informed General Garfield of the probable defection in the Pennsylvania delegation, which he believed would end the Grant movement the country over. "The "move will at first aid Mr. Blaine, but I believe I understand how to move so as to kill "him at the Chicago convention." He wrote also to the same effect to Mr. Marshall Jewell. The next day General Garfield wrote that it was becoming every day more apparent that the friends of the leading presidential candidates were becoming embittered so much as to affect seriously the approaching campaign.

April 28th Barker had a conference with President Hayes and Mr. Wayne MacVeagh, and the following day with Senator Carl Schurz, Mr. Horace White, Senator Cameron, Governor Pound, and General Garfield. About this time Barker wrote to Garfield expressing dissatisfaction with the course of Secretary Sherman. May 19 Mr. Barker wrote Mr. McManes, one of the anti-Grant delegates from Pennsylvania:

"I want to see you before noon, if possible. You can make a move in Illinois that will without doubt destroy Grant's chances, and make your voice almost supreme at Chicago June 2d. Please let me know when I can see you."

And the success in Chicago of the combined opposition to Grant turned out a very important feature in the night June 1st.

Barker returned with Grier to vote for Garfield, something which he did almost without a break throughout the convention. On the 5th he telegraphed Schurz:

"Garfield can be nominated if Sherman can be withdrawn. Delay will nominate Grant. Use your influence, and at once."

The letters after the nomination and election are not so interesting. In January 1, 1881, General Garfield denied any part the Pennsylvania senatorial fact.

The correspondence proves that the nomination of Garfield was not as spontaneous as it has generally been supposed to have been, a fact which Barker's organ, the American, has hinted before, and that Mr. Wharton Barker has been a more influential man than has generally been known.

This disclosure of facts will add to Mr. Barker's reputation for sagacity. Just what effect, if any, it will have on Garfield's memory time will tell.

Abraham Lincoln post, G. A. R., Denver, has passed resolutions condemning the opening of a saloon by one of its members at Camp Vandervoort.

There are indications that the Grand Army of the Republic, a peaceable organization in itself, will be the cause of a sanguinary newspaper war in Denver.

We believe that Mr. Wharton Barker has been mentioned in connection with the presidency, and it may be that he would like to bear before the country the banner of distribution of the surplus.

There seems to be a large amount of fuss made about Orth Stein, formerly a Colorado "journalist," who is on trial for murder at Kansas City. He appears to be the sort of man who might be hung on general principles.

It is reported that Senator Don Cameron will be absent in Europe for about two years. If now Senator Butler, of South Carolina, instead of pairing merely would go to Europe or Africa or the Feejee islands, the country would have double cause for thankfulness.

LITERARY.

The August Atlantic contains two additional chapters of Mr. Crawford's new serial, "A Roman Singer," which is attracting a great deal of attention, both for its own merits and as being the work of this writer of the popular novels "Mr. Isaacs" and "Dr. Claudius." Mr. Lathrop's "Newport" serial, of which three new chapters are given, naturally has a special interest for the frequenters of that seaside resort, but its interest is by no means limited either to that place or to those who have been there. Rev. Brooke Herford contributes a remarkably interesting paper on "The Trustworthiness of Early Tradition," showing that it is not at all unreliable hearsay or gossip, but, as a general fact, can be accepted as valid history, at least as the facts were understood by those who transmitted them from one generation to another. "The Hare and the Tortoise," by Sarah Orne Jewett, is a story which will be read with great satisfaction by those who know how charming Miss Jewett's style is, and what a wholesome, cheerful atmosphere pervades her stories. Henry James writes of "The Country of the Loire," as the second of his series of papers relating to a French country scenery and life, entitled "En Province." Ernest W. Longfellow, son of the world-famous poet, contributes an excellent article on "Reminiscences of Thomas Couture," the famous French artist. Miss F. C. Baylor has a paper, at once authentic and curiously interesting, concerning Virginian life, entitled "In the Old Dominion." Charles Dudley Warner contributes another of his sagacious and humorous travel sketches, "Around the Spanish Coast." Olive Thorne Miller, who has a peculiar felicity in writing on subjects pertaining to natural history, furnishes an admirable "Study of a Cat-bird." Prof. Herbert Tuttle writes of Academic Socialism," a thoughtful article which cannot fail to challenge the attention of a large body of intelligent readers. The number contains poems by Mrs. Piatt, Grace Denio Litchfield and Charles F. Lummis; reviews of several important new works; and the usual collection of bright, brief essays in the Contributors' Club—the whole making a remarkably good summer number of the Atlantic.

THE MODERN AGE.

Many people regret the fact that the treasures of foreign literature are inaccessible to them because they have not mastered foreign languages sufficiently to be able to read in the original. To such people the Modern Age particularly recommends itself, as its able translations are opening up rich stores of fact and fiction which have hitherto lain unexplored by the great mass of American readers. The August number, for instance, contains translations from the French of Alfred de Musset and Ernest Legouvé, from the Italian of Edmondo d'Amicis and Giacomo Leopardi, from the German of Rudolph Lindau; and from the Russian of Ivan Tourgenieff, besides the cream of the English monthlies, and editorial comment on many interesting subjects, grouped under the heads of "Sayings and Doings," "Books and Book Men" and "Stage and Studio." All this is presented in attractive form, and at the low price of $1.00 per year. The magazine has deservedly met with a success which is accorded to few periodicals in the first year of their existence.

LITERARY NOTES.

Messrs. Lee & Shepard have nearly ready for publication Professor Allen's new system of short-hand.

A new play by Mr. Wilkie Collins, Rank and Riches, has been produced in England, but not with success.

A work of curious information about Gloves, by Mr. S. W. Beck, is soon to be published by Hamilton, Adams & Co.

Of Mr. Crawford's Mrs. Isaac fourteen thousand copies have been sold, and his Doctor Claudius ought to do even better.

A prize of six thousand two hundred francs has been awarded to Emile Montegut, by the French Academy, for his translation of Shakespeare.

Mr. Froude has written a sketch of Luther for one of the reviews, and Dr. Peter Bayne is at work on a life of Luther, which will make two large volumes.

William T. Adams (Oliver Optic) is studying life in the region of the Androscoggin lakes, "away down in Maine," preparatory to writing a new story for the young folks.

Lee & Shepard have just issued the concluding volumes—fourteen and fifteen—of the "Complete Works of Charles Sumner," which are furnished only to subscribers.

With its 128 broad quarto pages, handsomely adorned with sixty-two rich illustrations, the monthly part of the Continent weekly magazine makes a strong bid for popular favor. Among the contributors to this issue are Marion Harland, Louise Stockton, Elizabeth Akers Allen, the poetess, Helen Campbell, Rhoda Broughton, and other writers of distinction.

Mr. Shimshiro Baito, who lately resigned his position in the Japanese foreign office at Tokio to accept the position of secretary to the minister of the United States at Pekin, was graduated from the Harvard Law School in 1878. While in this country he contributed to various periodicals, and translated with Mr. Edward Greey, The Royal Roulns. He was present with Gen. Lucius H. Foote, our minister to Seoul, at the ratification of the Shufeldt treaty, a few weeks ago.

Mr. Henry Ruggles' recent work, entitled "Germany Seen Without Spectacles," has rather nettled the minds of some of our German American citizens, who would rather "some things had been left unsaid." The Boston Herald laughs at such weakness and thinks that "Mr. Ruggles' work deserves to be read and studied by all persons who wish to get at truths through an honest medium." The work affords certainly one of the most important and pleasing accounts of life in the German empire.

Cassell & Co., Limited, announce for immediate publication a series of Manuals for Students of Medicine. This series has been projected to meet the demand of medical students and practitioners for compact and authoritative manuals which shall embody the most recent discoveries, and present them to the readers in a cheaper and more portable form than has till now been customary. The authors are either examiners or teachers in well known medical schools. New and valuable illustrations will be freely introduced.

"Yankee Doodle, the poem recently delivered by Robert Grant before the Phi Beta Kappa society at Harvard, has just been published in neat pamphlet form by Cupples, Upham & Co. Mr. Grant, who is very well known as the author of The Confessions of a Frivolous Girl, is the youngest poet who has yet read before the Harvard Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa. Just ten years ago he was poet of his class at Harvard. He was married on the 3d of the present month to a daughter of Sir A. T. Galt, of Montreal, who is a son of John Galt, the famous English novelist.

There is a somewhat noticeable paper in the Athenæum of June 18, on Emily Bronte, by Mr. Swinburne. The suggestion of it seems to have been Miss Robinson's memoir of Emily Bronte, which has lately been reviewed in these columns; but Mr. Swinburne makes the book a text of general remarks upon the English novel, old and new, upon the Bronte sisters at large, and upon Emily Bronte's novel of Wuthering Heights in particular, a work upon which Mr. Swinburne places a very exalted estimate. "It is certain," he says, "that those who do like it will like nothing very much better in the whole world of poetry or prose.

The new and enterprising firm which goes under the title of "The Philadelphia Biography Publishing company," which made a great success of its first volume, an account of all the city officers of the bi-centennial year, has now in hand a new volume which will give short but careful biographies of a hundred prominent Pennsylvanians. Representative names will readily occur: Governor Pattison, Attorney-General Brewster, ex-Governor Hartranft, Geo. W. Childs, of the Ledger, and Charles Emory Smith, of the Press. A third volume will contain lives of coal celebrities, including miners and shippers, and the chiefs of the Pennsylvania, New York, and Boston Coal Carrying companies. The number of names is about eight hundred. These volumes are finely illustrated with photogravures.

Stein testified that Fredericks, when he came to the woman's room, he had high words, both with her and himself, the defendant, regarding the shooting He stated that as they went down stairs, Fredericks slightly in advance, he (Stein), stumbled whereupon Fredericks turned with some exclamation and put his hand to his hip pocket Stein then thinking him armed drew a revolver and fired

Climbing the Himalayas

London Saturday Review

A height of more than 22 000 feet has we believe, been reached in the Himalayas by an English officer, and a height exceeding 21,000 feet was twice reached by Mr Whymper in the Andes It is remarkable that at first this traveler and his guides suffered frightfully from the rarity of the air At an elevation of only 16 000 feet on the slopes of Chimborazo they felt incapable for a while of making the least exertion Subsequently, however, Mr Whymper passed a night on the summit of Cotopaxi, 19,000 feet high, without apparently suffering in any way, and when he made his second ascent of Chimborazo he does not seem to have felt any oppression whatever For the real enthusiast such an expedition must have the greatest possible attraction If he succeeds he will achieve lasting renown and, if he fails, and at 25 000 feet, or thereabouts, dies literally from want of breath, his last moments will be cheered by the thought that he has made a highly interesting experi*ment, and that he will rank legitimately* among the martyrs of science

Prehistoric Immigrants

London Athenæum

M de Nadaillac, who has recently published an excellent work on "Prehistoric America," says that in America, as in Europe all serious proof fails of the existence of man at an earlier period than the quaternary "From these earliest times," he continues, "themselves so obscure, we see with some astonishment the civilizations of the Old and New World developing themselves so to speak, in parallel lines, following the same phases, and arriving at the same results. What have been the relations between these races? Here also, we are confronted with difficult problems but though we are often reduced to hypothesis to explain them, we can confidently affirm that these relations have existed, that America has been successfully peopled by diverse races of very different types. Among the common elements the most important, in number and influence, are the Asiatic immigrations These immigrations of yellow brachycephalous races are incontestable, and have certainly lasted for long ages The greater part have taken place from the islands of the north, the several peoples of Nahutal race, descending successively to ward the south, are the most direct consequences of these migrations But before the arrival of these Americans other men occupied the American continent for a considerable time the Esquimaux in the north, the Botocudos and Patagonians in the south may well be the representatives of this race, crowded back, like the Basques and Finns in our own continent, by conquering strangers We do not seek to conceal how precarious these hypotheses still are, and what need there is for confirmation of the proofs we possess After long and patient labors we must end in the words of the American savant, "The new world is a great mystery."

What Violin Should a Child Use?

Gentleman's Magazine.

Ought young children to begin upon small sized violins? All makers say "yes," naturally, for they supply the new violins of all sizes But I emphatically say "No" The sooner the child gets accustomed to the right violin intervals the better, the small violins merely present him with a series of wrong distances, which he has successively to unlearn It is bad enough, if in after years he learns the violoncello or tenor Few violinists survive that ordeal, and most people who take to the tenor or 'cello after playing the violin keep to it either they have not been successful on the violin, or they hope to become so on its larger, though less brilliant, relation, but they have a perfectly true instinct that it is difficult to excel on both because of the intervals Yet in the face of this you put a series of violins of different sizes into the pupil's hand on the ground that, as his hand enlarges with his use the enlarged key board will suit his finger better but that it is not the way the brain works—the brain learns intervals It does not bother itself about the size of the fingers that have got to stretch them A child of even 7 or 8 can stretch all the ordinary intervals on a full sized violin finger board He may not be able to hold the violin to his chin, but he can learn his scales and pick out tunes sitting on a stool and holding his instrument like a violoncello Before the age of 8 I found no difficulty in doing this but the greater the difficulty the better the practice The tendons cannot be too much stretched short of spraining and breaking More holding is to be made no account of the muscles cannot be too much worked. A child will soon gain surprising agility even on a large finger board Avoid the hateful figured slip of paper that used to be pasted on to the finger boards in my youth with round dots for the fingers I remember tearing mine off in a fit of uncontrollable irritation I found it very difficult, with the use of my eyes to put my finger on the dots, and even then the note was not always in tune for of course the dot might be covered in a dozen ways by the finger tips and a hair's breadth one way or the other would vary the note But the principle is vicious A violin player's eyes have no more business with his fingers than a billiard player's eyes have with his cue He looks at the ball, and the musician, if he looks at anything, should look at the notes or at his audience or he can shut his eyes if he likes It is his ears, not his eyes I have to do with his fingers

Governor Butler's Religion

In his Williams college speech General Butler said "I have nothing to do with religious creeds or religious beliefs upon non essentials Brought up in a Baptist college, it yet never seemed to me that it was of any consequence what amount of water was used to give the sign of the living soul that it belonged to Christ Afterward, struck with the beauty of the liturgy and litany of the Episcopal church in its rhythmic flow, almost in numbers, satisfied with the apostles creed, and fully content to wind up the morn*ing devotion* with the prayer of Chrysostom 'Oh, Lord, listen to our petitions, as they are most convenient for us,' certain that all will be done, I became a member of an Episcopal congregation But there are some things, my young friends, as you go forth into the world, that you must never lose hold of, for if you do, there is no place where you can stop He, in my judgment, *who claims to be*lieve that the Scriptures are the word of God and the New Testament is the history of the life of His son and then does not believe that the son is divine, has given up the whole case, and he has just one step further to take to deism, and then but a single step to atheism and the denying of existence of God at all I cannot talk to you like a clergyman but I have some ideas of my old soldier life, and upon this question I say to you' 'Stand to your guns Don t give up the ship' This was the doctrine on which your fathers reared these walls They put no restrictions upon you, gentlemen of the trustees, because it never occurred to them that Massachusetts could swerve from these doctrines, and Massachusetts, by the bulk or majority of the people, can never do so, and these doctrines and these fundamental provisions, I trust, will always be taught in this, our beloved, steadfast, firm, and Christian alma mater"

Take the G. A. R. excursion train from Colorado Springs to Denver to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock.

Just at present there is more travel on the Rio Grande main line and Manitou branch than at any time last season.

There was a picnic to Bear Creek canon yesterday afternoon. For further particulars apply to any member of the party.

Thos. Harris, uncle of Mrs. W. E. McLain, arrived in town last night from Montezuma, Iowa, to spend some time in Colorado.

The Manitou Park hotel stage went out overloaded yesterday morning. This resort is said to even more popular than last year.

There will be services at Grace (Episcopal) church this morning at 11 o'clock and evening at 7:30, Rev. A. F. Blake, of Cincinnati, officiating.

Callender's minstrels gave a benefit performance at the Grand opera house, Denver, last night, the proceeds to be for the Grand Army fund.

R. E. Shumnin, interested in one of the largest upholstering firms in Chicago, has been stopping here for a few days, the guest of Mr. A. K. Scaries. He left yesterday for Salt Lake City.

The following party started last night for a walk to the Peak: John F. Daly, A. B. Meserve, Bob. Coulson, George Bitthers, Bert. Storer, Roy Morton, Will M. McCoe, Mr. Ford, George Mackenzie, W. I. Rudy, James Davis, Archie McLeod.

Preaching to-day at the Christian church on Huerfano street, between Weber and Wahsatch, by the pastor, John C. Hay. Subject in the morning, "The purifying and ennobling power of Christian love;" at night, "The temptation of Jesus."

For the next five days the round trip fare from Colorado Springs to Denver over the Denver & Rio Grande will be $2.50 including two tickets to the exposition. As this road runs four trains each way daily the advantage of this rate can be readily seen.

The pulpit of the First M. E. church will be occupied this morning by Rev. E. C. Brooke, of Nickerson, Kansas, and in the evening by Rev. W. Osburn, of Durango. The pastor, Rev. A. W. Arundel, will start for the conference at Denver on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. L. P. Truss, editor of the Crested Butte Republican, arrived in the city yesterday, accompanied by his wife. They returned the earlier part of the week from the editorial excursion to Salt Lake City, and after a short visit to friends in Denver are on their way home to Crested Butte.

Yesterday morning's Thunderbolt came in three hours late, having attached seven coaches and sleepers containing representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic on their way to Denver to attend the reunion. Several special trains containing members of the G. A. R. will pass through the city to-day.

Next week an effort will be made at Denver towards the organization of a National Ladies' Auxiliary to the G. A. R. At the last meeting of the Colorado Springs Auxiliary the following delegates to that convention were elected: Mrs. Mary F. Shields, Mrs. L. E. Sherman; Mrs J. L. Loomis, Mrs. M. W. Everloth, Mrs. N. B. Hodge.

What means this congregation of celebrated pugilists at Colorado Springs? Early in the week Mitchell, the English champion, with his trainer, Billy Madden, arrived in this city, and last night's train brought Slade, the Australian champion, who is matched to fight Mitchell within 200 miles of Kansas City on September 11th. Mitchell will remain here some time and go in training for the encounter about August 1st. It is understood that Sullivan is now on his way to Colorado Springs, and should the contest between Mitchell and Slade be won by the former, he will at once challenge Sullivan for another encounter.

Plea for the Children.

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 20, 1883.

To the Editor of the GAZETTE.

I write in behalf of the children of our town, and would respectfully request the band of musicians who play in the parks to commence at 8 o'clock, and thus give the little ones an opportunity to hear the music. All well-bred children should be in bed at 9 o'clock or earlier, and as it is they must either trespass on the hours of rest or forego the pleasure of listening to the music. I therefore put in a plea for an earlier hour for the concert, thus greatly obliging the children.

A GRANDMOTHER.

A GREAT BARGAIN.

Having decided to permanently locate in Denver, I offer for sale my beautiful cottage residence and vacant corner on North Nevada avenue. The entire grounds are graded and set out with the finest selection of small fruits to be found in Colorado, all in bearing condition. The most desirable and the only improved building corner in the North End, and will be sold at a sacrifice, as my failing health makes it impossible for me to attend to it. For particulars inquire at the premises, corner Nevada avenue and Uintah street.

TO INVALIDS AND TOURISTS!

THE
Soven Lakes Hotel
IS NOW OPEN

It is the highest Hotel of the kind in the world and in the highest forest.

The principal lake is 80 feet deep and one mile in diameter; is the highest in the world, 11,432 feet above tide water. [Report of the U. S. Signal Service.

It has the highest sail boats in the world.

"The road via Cheyenne Canon and Beaver Park to Pike's Peak, about 13,000 feet, is the highest carriage road in the world, and the volcanic crater, within which are the Hotel and Lakes, is the highest and largest in the world. It does not militate against the crater that it has but one opening."—[Chancellor of the Kansas State University.

Professor Spring says: "The scenery is extraordinary; sublime beyond description."

Said the pyrotechnist who made the fire works for the great Masonic celebration in Chicago: "I never felt so near the Great White Throne as when beholding these stupendous remains of God Almighty's fire works."

Rev. H. C. Crane says: "Along the Cheyenne road, and at the Lakes, the views are glorious. By the old lake-bed, over 13,000 feet in the air, I found many precious crystals. I have never felt so happy since my marriage day."

Rev. Mrs. Crane: "All this, and heaven too."

Hjerstadt, the Rocky Mountain artist: "I never grow weary of looking at it. It changes every hour. Cheyenne mountain, over the crest of which runs the road to the Lakes and Pike's Peak, is the only mountain in the world which rises without a base. From the prairies it boldly springs up 4,000 feet."

Various journals, notably the Atlantic Monthly, and "H. H." speak kindly of the House, Lakes and road.

"O, for some kind friend to kick me up another hill," said Mark Twain before the road was made.

The water and highly developed air, ozone (or pressed oxygen) cure many diseases. Exhaustion, pet vousness and every symptom of paralysis disappear. So with many lung and heart troubles.

The Hotel is four miles from Pike's Peak (official survey); carriage way three miles. Everything in Hostelry, Guides, Couriers, Horses, Burros, Tents, Lunches, etc., furnished at reasonable rates. Goat's or cow's milk for invalids. Stage twice a week. Address or call on
